Bartender of the Month
Kimberly Black

Whistlestop Restaurant & Sports bar

The Florida Keys is a long way from South Carolina for this beautiful southern belle but their loss is our gain. This month the Coconut Telegraph recognizes Kimberly Black of the Whistlestop Restaurant as bartender of the month.

When Tracy Burgeson and her husband Bob moved to the Keys to manage her twin sister Kelly and husband Captain Tom's Islamorada Whistlestop restaurant they brought the cream of the crop with them, Kimberly Black. Black has plenty of experience including managing a five star restaurant in Greenville, SC.

Whether she is behind the bar or happily waiting tables the service Black provides is fast and friendly.

"I love the specials Chef Vincent makes," she explains. "The meatloaf is my personal favorite but you've got to try the Parmesan Alfredo with stuffed cheese ravioli, it's awesome.

The Whistlestop's new management also brought with them Executive Chef Vincent Stevenson from South Carolina. Everyone is raving about his additions to the menu and the quality of his food.

Recently celebrating 28 years in business, the Whistlestop has long had a reputation for fantastic, reasonably priced food and fun but now it has gotten even better!

"Don't forget that locals get 10% off," says Black. "And we have Happy Hour here sevedays a week with $1 drafts and $2.50 well drinks. You can't beat it."

Every Tuesday is tournament night. With four pool tables in the old town tavern atmosphere it is guaranteed to be good time for all! So stop in the Whistlestop and tell Kimberly Black the Coconut Telegraph sent you.
