All Puns Intended

Thanks to Gillian Gates - Canada

1. Two antennas met on a roof, fell in love and got married. The ceremony wasn't much, but the reception was excellent.
2. A jumper cable walks into a bar. The bartender says, "I'll serve you, but don't start anything."
3. Two peanuts walk into a bar, and one was a salted.
4. A dyslexic man walked into a bra.
5. A man walks into a bar with a slab of asphalt under his arm, and says: "A beer please, and one for the road."
6. Two cannibals are eating a clown. One says to the other: "Does this taste funny to you?"
7. An invisible man marries an invisible woman. The kids were nothing to look at either.
8. Deja Moo: The feeling that you've heard this bull before.
9. I went to buy some camouflage trousers the other day, but I couldn't find any.
10. A man woke up in a hospital after a serious accident. He shouted, "Doctor, doctor, I can't feel my legs!" The doctor replied, "I know, I amputated your arms!"
11. I went to a seafood disco last week... And pulled a mussel.
15. Two fish swim into a concrete wall. The one turns to the other and says, "Dam!"
19. Mahatma Gandhi, as you know, walked barefoot most of the time, which produced an impressive set of calluses on his feet. He also ate very little, which made him rather frail and with his odd diet, he suffered from bad breath. This made him (oh, man, this is so bad, it's good). A super-calloused fragile mystic hexed by halitosis.
20. And finally, there was the person who sent twenty different puns to his friends, with the hope that at least ten of the puns would make them laugh. No pun in ten did.

RIP My Neighbors Sweet Rabbit

Recently while lying in my hammock drinking JD from the bottle I noticed my dog dragging something under the fence. Upon inspection, to my dismay, I realized it was the next-door neighbor's 10-year-old daughter's rabbit.

For years I had watched her come home from school and head straight out to its cage, let it loose and play with it in the yard. I knew today would be no different and fearing for my dog, I had to think fast.

The rabbit was quite dirty, as if it had put up quite a struggle, so I washed it off with the hose, combed it with the dog brush and blew it dry with the leaf blower.

Upon finishing its grooming, I hopped the fence and put it back in its cage hoping its death would be written off as "natural causes." I then went back to the hammock and my JD.

Within the hour the neighbor's Volvo pulled in as usual and out popped the little girl, and as usual she headed straight for the cage. Only this time she stopped about six feet away and screamed:

"DDDAAAADDDYYYYYYYYY!!!"

Her father, panic stricken, stood looking at the cage. Being the good neighbor that I am I rushed to fence and asked if there was anything I could do.

Her father less than calmly blurted, "What kind of sick individual would dig up a little girl's dead rabbit and put it back in it's cage??"

Are You Ready for Children?

Are you considering having children? To determine whether you are truly prepared for the experience, we suggest you take this set of simple tests...

MESS TEST:

Smear peanut butter on the sofa and curtains. Now rub your hands in the wet flowerbed and rub on the walls. Cover the stains with crayons. Place a fish finger behind the couch and leave it there all summer.

TOY TEST:

Obtain a 55-gallon box of Lego. (If Lego are not available, you may substitute roofing tacks or broken bottles). Have a friend spread them all over the house. Put on a blindfold. Try to walk to the bathroom or kitchen. Do not scream (this could wake a child at night).

GROCERY STORE TEST:

Borrow one or two small animals (goats are best) and take them with you as you shop at the grocery store. Always keep them in sight and pay for anything they eat or damage.

DRESSING TEST:

Obtain one large, unhappy, live octopus. Stuff into a small net bag making sure that all arms stay inside.

FEEDING TEST:

Obtain a large plastic milk jug. Fill halfway with water. Suspend from the ceiling with a stout cord. Start the jug swinging. Try to insert spoonfuls of soggy cereal (such as Weetabix or Cheerio's) into the mouth of the jug while pretending to be an airplane. Now dump the contents of the jug on the floor.

NIGHT TEST:

Prepare by obtaining a small cloth bag and fill it with 8 to 12 pounds of sand. Soak it thoroughly in water. At 8:00 PM begin to waltz and hum with the bag until 9:00 PM. Lay down your bag and set your alarm for 10:00 PM. Get up, pick up your bag, and sing every song you have ever heard. Make up about a dozen more new ones and sing these too until 4:00 AM. Set alarm for 5:00 AM. Get up and make breakfast. Keep this up for five years. Look cheerful.

PHYSICAL TEST (WOMEN):

Obtain a large beanbag chair and attach it to the front of your clothes. Leave it there for 9 months. Now remove 10% of the beans.

PHYSICAL TEST (MEN):

Go to the nearest drug store. Set your wallet on the counter. Ask the assistant to help himself. Now proceed to the nearest food store. Go to the head office and arrange for your wages to be directly deposited to the store. Purchase a newspaper. Go home and read it quietly for the last time.

FINAL ASSIGNMENT:

Find a couple who already have a small child. Lecture them on how they can improve their discipline, patience, tolerance, toilet training, and child's table manners. Suggest many ways they can improve. Emphasize to them that they should never allow their children to run riot. Enjoy this experience. It will be the last time you will have all the answers.

The Dreaded Blister Bugs - Swipe Don't Swat!

If you are from up north you probably remember catching lightning bugs in a jar as a kid. When the sun would set these harmless little half-inch bugs would come out and their tails would light up like a light bulb. Those lightening bugs look exactly like the blister bugs we have here in South Florida. They also swarm at night and are attracted to light. These innocent looking bugs are beetles (Coleoptera) of the Meloidae family, so called for their defensive secretion of a blistering agent, Cantharidin. If you feel one of them land on your skin gently brush them off because if you swat them like a mosquito you could most likely end up with a nasty looking blister.

The chemical Cantharidin is poisonous and is used medically on humans to remove warts. It is also known as Spanish Fly or Cantharides, and is often given to farm animals to incite them to mate. When ingested it irritates the urethral passages, causing inflammation in the genitals.

For this reason, Spanish Fly has been given to humans for the purpose of seduction and it may help men keep a longer erection. This is dangerous since the difference between the effective dose and the toxic dose margin is quite narrow, meaning don't go around collecting these bugs, crushing them and putting them in your mates drink as it could cause permanent damage to the kidneys and genitals. As it is illegal for general sale anything you purchase may be something less harmful but why take the chance? It is a serious criminal act to give it to someone unawares. The Marquis de Sade was sentenced to death for that. If you think you may have ingested it seek immediate emergency medical treatment.

There was a scientific study done in a South Florida prison where 12 maximum-security inmates voluntarily took the drug. Study says they went crazy and managed to escape; now there are 12 hardened criminals on the loose.
