

Are You in Love?

but suddenly you feel like you're a politician fighting to win the most important election ever in the history of the universe. You make sure that the faded newspaper article about you winning your third-grade spelling bee is left nonchalantly on the coffee table when they come to visit. And you keep them as far away as possible from that great aunt who loves to tell all of the embarrassing stories about you.

7. You're in love if you aren't as tight with your money or time anymore. There was a time when the idea of shelling out your hard-earned money to buy someone dinner or a gift would have horrified you. Sure, you would buy an occasional round for your friends or bring grandma flowers on her birthday, but spending any more money than absolutely necessary just wasn't going to happen. But now, no price seems too high as long as it makes that special someone happy.

8. You're in love if hanging out with your friends just isn't as appealing any more.

Remember when you and your friends made fun of the former buddy who ditched your gang to hang out with his or her new boyfriend or girlfriend? And when the thought of abandoning your friends to spend time with a member of the opposite sex seemed sacrilege? Well you can try to deny it all you want, but you're finding yourself constantly thinking about being with that special someone... Even when you're surrounded by your buddies!

9. You're in love if commitment is actually starting to sound like something you could stand.

What, you commit to something that requires you to be faithful and responsible? Oh, the horror! What strange, evil spell has been cast upon you that would actually make you excited about a long-term relationship or even marriage with someone? Did someone slip something into your drink? Are you going insane? No. You're probably in love, knucklehead.

10. You're in love if you just aren't noticing other members of the opposite sex. Oh, the people you used to stare at are still there, you just aren't noticing them anymore. For some bizarre reason, that special someone has suddenly become infinitely more attractive to you than any other person on the face of the planet. People who you used to think were good-looking suddenly pale in comparison to the one you have found yourself falling in love with.
