

Coco'Nut' Funnies

So my husband dressed our dog up in his halloween costume early this year to see if it would fit right. When I got home from work, our dog naturally was excited and ran up to say hi to me when I walked through the door. I shit myself. No joke, I literally shit myself and screamed like a teenage girl at a Justin Bieber concert. Needless to say, our dog was a bit confused.

A Keys Tale

A man, returning home a day early from a business trip, got into a Mom's Taxi at the Miami International airport. It was after midnight. While in route to his home in Tavernier, he asked the cab driver if he would be a witness.

The man suspected his wife was having an affair and he intended to catch her in the act. And for $100, the cab driver agreed.

Quietly arriving at the house, the husband and cab driver tiptoed into the bedroom. The husband switched on the lights, yanked the blanket back and there was his wife in bed with another man. The husband put a gun to the naked man's head.

The wife shouted, "Don't do it! This man has been very generous! I lied when I told you I inherited money. He paid for the Corvette I bought for you. He paid for our new cabin cruiser. He paid for your season Miami Dolphin Tickets. He paid for our condo in Key West. He paid for our Ocean Reef Club membership, and he even pays the yearly dues!" Shaking his head from side-to-side the husband slowly lowered the gun. He looked over at the cab driver and said, "What would you do?"

The cab driver said, "I'd cover his ass up with that blanket before he catches a cold."

Left Field

"He wouldn't be half bad-looking if he did something with those tentacles..."

to do list

- Make vanilla pudding. Put in mayo jar. Eat in public.
- Hire two private investigators. Get them to follow each other.
- Wear shirt that says "Life." Hand out lemons on street corner.
- Get into a crowded elevator and say "I bet you're all wondering why I gathered you here today."
- Major in philosophy. Ask people WHY they would like fries with that.

- Run into a store, ask what year it is. When someone answers, yell "It worked!" and run out cheering loudly.
- Become a doctor. Change last name to Acula.
- Change name to Simon. Speak in third person.
- Buy a parrot. Teach the parrot to say "Help! I've been turned into a parrot."
- Follow joggers around in your car blasting "Eye of the Tiger" for encouragement.

The Job Interview

We've all been interviewed for jobs. And, we've all spent most of those interviews thinking about what not to do. Don't bite your nails. Don't fidget. Don't interrupt. Don't belch. If we did any of the don'ts, we knew we'd disqualify ourselves instantly. But some job applicants go light years beyond this. We surveyed top personnel executives of 100 major American corporations and asked for stories of unusual behavior by applicants. The lowlights:

"...stretched out on the floor to fill out the job application."

"She wore a Walkman and said she could listen to me and the music at the same time."

"A balding candidate abruptly excused himself. Returned to office a few minutes later, wearing a hairpiece."

"...asked to see interviewer's resume to see if the personnel executive was qualified to judge the candidate."

"...announced she hadn't had lunch and proceeded to eat a hamburger and french fries in the interviewer's office - wiping the ketchup on her sleeve."

"Stated that, if he were hired, he would demonstrate his loyalty by having the corporate logo tattooed on his forearm."

"Interrupted to phone his therapist for advice on answering specific interview questions."

"When I asked him about his hobbies, he stood up and started tap dancing around my office."

"At the end of the interview, while I stood there dumbstruck, he went through my purse, took out a brush, brushed his hair, and left."

"...pulled out a Polaroid camera and snapped a flash picture of me. Said he collected photos of everyone who interviewed him."

"Said he wasn't interested because the position paid too much."

"While I was on a long-distance phone call, the applicant took out a copy of Penthouse, and looked through the photos only, stopping longest at the centerfold."

"During the interview, an alarm clock went off from the candidate's brief case. He took it out, shut it off, apologized and said he had to leave for another interview."

"A telephone call came in for the job applicant. It was from his wife. His side of the conversation went like this: 'Which company? When do I start? What's the salary?' I said, 'I assume you're not interested in conducting the interview any further.' He promptly responded, 'I am as long as you'll pay me more.' I didn't hire him, but later found out there was no other job offer. It was a scam to get a higher offer."

"His attache (case) opened when he picked it up and the contents spilled, revealing ladies' underwear, assorted makeup and perfume."

"Candidate said he really didn't want to get a job, but the unemployment office needed proof that he was looking for one."

"...asked who the lovely babe was, pointing to the picture on my desk. When I said it was my wife, he asked if she was home now and wanted my phone number. I called security."

"Pointing to a black case he carried into my office, he said that if he was not hired, the bomb would go off. Disbelieving, I said why he would never be hired and that I was going to call the police. He then reached down to the case, flipped a switch, and ran. No one was injured, but I did need to get a new desk."

— Thank you Thad Bowling!

Editor's note - I actually had a guy ask me to fill out an application for him because he couldn't read or write.

Beware of on line purchases

If you buy stuff on line, check out the seller carefully. A friend just spent $95, plus shipping, on a penis enlarger. Bastards sent him a magnifying glass. The only instructions said, "Do not use in direct sunlight."
