

The Mangrove Galley by Sandi Mieszczenski

CREAMY DILL SHRIMP

- 1 pound large shrimp shelled and deveined
- 1 minced shallot
- 4 large minced garlic cloves (2 cloves if you are not a big garlic fan)
- 3 Tbls unsalted butter
- 2 Tbls flour
- ¼ cup white wine
- 1 pint heavy whipping cream
- 1 bunch chopped fresh dill (actual amount added depends on your taste)
- salt and pepper to taste

Place shrimp in a large saucepan of boiling water and cook for one and one-half minutes. Drain in a colander and rinse with cool water. Sauté the shallot and garlic in a large skillet with one tablespoon of butter until tender. Remove from the pan and set aside. Add the remaining butter to the hot pan and melt the butter. Add the flour and whisk the roux for about five minutes.

Add the wine and cook down for about three minutes continuing to whisk. Add the cream, cover the pan and slowly bubble the mixture for five to seven minutes, whisking occasionally. Return the shallot and garlic to the mix, add the shrimp and dill, stir, cover and cook over low heat for five minutes. Salt and pepper to taste and serve over the pasta of your choice. Enjoy!

This is a recipe that my husband and I picked up on a trip to San Francisco some years ago. It is super tasty without too much work.

When this is over,
may we never again
take for granted
A handshake with a stranger Full shelves at the store Conversations with neighbors
A crowded theater or highway
Friday night out
The taste of communion
A routine checkup
The school rush each morning
Coffee with a friend
The stadium roaring
Each deep breath
A boring Tuesday Life itself.

"The government passed a new flat tax today on crackers, computer screens, floor tiles, plywood, pancakes, cheese, roof shingles, cardboard, DVDs, windows, doors, sidewalks, old tires, stale beer and everything else that is flat."

I always thought the apocalypse would involve more zombies and less wrestling old people for toilet paper at Costco.

Today's drink special:
The Quarantini.
It's just a regular martini, but you drink it alone in your house.

The best way to teach your kids about taxes is by eating

When this ends, may we find that we have become more like the people we wanted to be,
we were called to be,
we hoped to be...
and may we stay that way—better for each other because of the worst.

PERSONAL

Mark, Age 42
Seeks hostile woman for unfulfilling sex, future divorce, and co-dependency. Looking for a whiny, crazy lady with misplaced sense of entitlement and lots of expectations. Bonus points if you just finished dating every guy in town but now want to take it slow with me. I would be open to an unsatisfying fling but prefer a long-term, soul crushing descent into booze and pills.
